I am a Dominant

What you can expect of me

Responsibility

- I am responsible for my actions. Where I am, how I got here, what and who I am, I am me.
- I am a Daddy, I like them younger than me, but then again, I am “old”.
- I am (have always wanted to be) “in control” of “my world”. I work for myself, I am responsible for myself in life. That said, I also can acknowledge my weaknesses.
- What: I Want a Master/slave relationship.

Emotional Resilient

- I am calm, cool and collected. I am easy going and live a simple life. When “shit happens” I do not blame, I do not lash out, I look at the issue and work on a solution to solve or overcome the obstacles / problem (issue).

- I am a “Spock”, logical, but with buried emotions. The emotions are guarded and managed in a controlled manner, while not harming others.

Leading

- I do enjoy taking the lead, but only after one has allowed this. Meaning there is a talk, and if that goes well, then things change a little, if you understand. Thus prior to this, my “lead” maybe somewhat timid as I don’t want to be seen as being “pushy”. If you have ever seen me interact with a cat you would understand. First you need to agree to terms, then I can truly “lead”. That said, I am in charge.
- Yes, I can and will listen to advice and opinions; but the choices will be mine. I will encourage, support, or challenge. And when I see the need I will lightly push her submissive nature holding her back or stopping her from achieving her (or my) goals for her.
- I can compromise (some), I can negotiate, and I do listen.

Respect

- This is something I must earn (thus the notes above). I can not “take the lead” right off the bat. That is something I need to earn. One needs to accept that I will not cause one harm(*) and am here to help. Once trust, respect, and like is established, then I’ve earned the beginnings of the submission I desire.
- I understand what that means, it means putting yourself in a potentially vulnerable position. That is the choice a submissive is making, and I understand and respect that. It’s a choice made and respected.

Communications

- I can communicate, I can listen, I can read (some) non-verbal body language. I speak calmly, clearly, in a friendly, warm, and empathetic manner.
- I want and expect feedback, input, and thoughts. I can adopt new behavior if needed.

Rules

- I will set some “Rules”. These will explain how things will work, what is and is not expected.
- These rules can cover many dynamics, including responsibilities, duties, orders, etc.

Disciplines

- There will be discipline! Some enjoy being “bad”, others don’t. Either way, I am the one in charge, and if punishment is required, so it be. This is not a debate, this is not a choice, the rules will be followed and enforced!
- I am confident, assertive. I have the will of strength and power to ensure all is well and calm in my world.

Cared For

- I am willing to care for, and will not “treat badly”. I will do my best to ensure one is okay, loved and cared for.
- I will be a good partner, helping when needed with decisions in life that can be difficult alone.

Sub Needs

- While it’s all about me... It’s not, I can’t be what I want to be without, and as such ensure another is well too. That they are getting what they need out of the agreement (relation/partnership).
 - It’s not about forcing you to submit, it’s your choice to join with me in my life.
 - I need to ensure you are happy and well taken care of. That you are safe and not subjected to aggressive behavior without regard to your health, welfare & wellbeing.

Followup

I don't take you as a pushover. I see this as a choice. You either have chosen or not to agree, accept and submit.

I can not "fix" your problems. I do enjoy saving the "damsel in distress" or at least trying to "save them". That said, I can not. I can offer to help, if that does good, great!

Boundaries will be worked out and agreed to; albeit time on, time off, when, where, what, how, etc.
