Girl Friday

I would not mind not having to do some of my household chores. Be it the laundry & dishes, let alone actually making the meal, or just all around house cleaning. These are things I know I am bad at, and I don't mind delegating responsible to someone, but who?

There could be a partnership that clearly defines the roles and responsibilities, and had would very well work, but here it's time to consider others options

What about a 'hired' person who's "job" it is to get these things done. One might call this personal by a specific profession or skill, like nanny, Au pair, Chambermaid, Wet nurse, a just a simple Cook & Maid, or by an overall name like Domestic Servants (correction, Domestic Worker, a person who works within the scope of a residence). This would be a "Job"?
