

Someone reached out

Category: SLG

written by Sir Valk | March 15, 2022

I got an odd “Hello ☐” message from a “friend”. I say friend because the ‘last’ (*Dec 2nd, 2021) message I receive from this person was:

I hope you have a friend to call when Angel dies. [...] Your 18 year old cat has a couple lethargic days and you call me crying, after we hadn't talked for a good moment, saying “you have nobody else to call” and I came to yours and hers comfort immediately.. [...] You are the worst person I think I have ever known [name]. Sincerely. I actually almost feel sorry for you but you do it to yourself.

SLG Dec 2nd 8:48am

Then less than 24 hours after learning that my cat Angel did in fact recently die, after their parent (wrongly) shared the information with them; they choose to “reach out” to me.

Out of kindness and a level of (past) love for this person I chose to ‘echo’ back their text message with a “Hello ☐” back. This was done 15 minutes after receiving their message. Since then (3 days later). I additional contact has happened.

